S.S.S. Scrofula of Lungs.

I am now 49 years old, and have suffered for the last fifteen years with a lung trouble. I have spent thousands of dollars to arrest the march of this disease, but temporary relief was all that I obtained. I was unfit for any manual labor for several years. A friend strongly recommended the use of Swift's Specific (S. S. S.), claiming that he himself had been greatly benefited by its use in some lung troubles. I resolved to try it. The results are remarkable. My cough has left me, my strength has returned, and I weigh sixty pounds more than I ever did in my life. It has been three years since I stopped the use of the medicine, but I have had no return of the disease, and there are no mains or weakness felt in my longs. I do the hardest kind of mechanical work, and feel as well as I ever felt since I was a boy. These, I know, are wonderful statements to make, but I am honest when I say that I owe my existence and health to-day to S. S. 1 would be recreant to the duty I owe to humanity If I failed to bear this cheerful testimony to the merits of this wonderful medicine.

MONEY-BEGGING LETTERS.

A Story George Sherldan Tells About Senator Sherman's Bottle.

Senator Stanford's private secretary tells Curtis of the Chicago Inter-Ocean that three-fourths the letters he receives are from beggars, and they number from twenty-five to forty every day. They come from all sorts of people and from all parts of the world. This week he received one from Egypt, another from Calcutta, and two from Ireland. He is asked to aid orphan asylums, to subscribe toward the erection of churches, to assist men and women paying mortgages off their farms, to furnish capital for the development of mines and the establishment of manufactures. Inventors want him to go into partnership with them in to go into partnership with them in promoting the results of their genius, including perpetual motion and flying machines. Several women wrote him for money to buy their children Christmas gifts; one young lady wanted him to give her a silk dress, and a young man expected his assistance to start a newspaper. Poor clergymen, cripples, widows, and all sorts of indigent people appeal to his sympathies and ask a share of his millions. He has an opportunity to give away his entire fortune every year, but declines to do so. These begging letters are never seen by him. All his mail is opened by his secretary, and such communications go instantly into the waste-basket.

There is a good story about Senator Sherman's private flask, which the Columbus correspondent of the Cleveland Leader says has never been in print before. Several years ago the Senator and Gen. Sheridan, the celebrated Louisiana stump orator, were campaigning together. Sheridan likes good liquor, and always samples the brands kept at the towns he visits. One night Sherman and he spoke in a small order-loving village, and when the meeting was over he attempted to get a drink of whisky. He learned to his dismay that there was not a saloon in the town, and that the druggists even refused to sell without a physician's prescription. Sheridan stormed from one end of the hamlet to the other in quest of a citizen with a private supply, but without avail. About midnight he returned to the hetel and rapped up Sherman. The Senator, on learning who it was, opened his door and admitted the thirsty and excited Southerner. "This is the most God-forsaken hole I have ever been in," said he, as he strode across the floor.
"I've been looking for something to drink for two hours," he continued, "but I'll be blanked if I can find a drop of anything, not even cider. I have walked all over the town and have walked all over the town and have asked a hundred people, men, women and children, just for a smell of whisky, but they told me that there was none to be had for love or money. Now, Sherman," he asked, almost piteously, "what am I to do?" The Senator's surprise equalled the General's disgust. He could not improve the situation, and he informed Sheridan to that effect. "Look here, Sherman," said the wretched Louisianian: "you must wretched Louisianian; "you must surely have a bottle. No sane man should travel without a supply of good whisky or brandy, and I know you have a snug little bottle in your bag. Give me a taste of it, and I will get the flask refilled at the next place we stop." The appeal was delivered in such a pathetic spirit that Sherman weakened.

He went to his valise and took from it

He went to his valies and took from it and ounce phial and and a spoen, both of which he handed Sheridan with the remark; "Here, General, help yourself. I sometimes carry a little good whisky for medicinal purposes. You are welcome to some if you ready need it." Sheridan mechanically took the phial and spoon. His amazement for the time made him speechless. He leaked time made him speechless. He looked at the spoon and bottle for a while, and then took in Sherman from head to foot. His disgust was complete. "Great guns!" he exclaimed, at last,

"this short bottle for that long man!" With that he flung the bottle across the room and rushed out. The offices of the Sergeant at Arms of the House and Senate have been busy places for the past two or three days, says a recent letter in the Cincinnati Times Star. These officers have as a part of their duties the payments of salaries of members of Congress. The 4th of the month is the usual salary day, but many of the members were a day or two late getting back from their holiday vacation. This was from their honday vacuum slow in their only excuse for being slow in the sums due them. Your calling for the sums due them. Your average member draws his salary very promptly and spends it quite as fast. There are few of them who save anything, and many of them seem to be "hard up" all the time. "You would be surprised." said a gentleman who has been a quarter of a century here. "to see how utterly impecunious many of these members are. They keep their salaries drawn just as fast as they can get them, and some of them are eternally in debt beside. I remember very well when I was in business here that it was a common thing for mem bers to come to my office and want to bers to come to my office and want to $50. It was no uncommon thing to have a half dozen of these calls in a day. I know of one man who made a very handsome thing by lending money at a very high rate of interest to mem-lers of Consesser. bers of Congress."

Mr. Wm. A. Garesche, United States Consul to Martinique, in a letter to friends at home, extracts of which are published in the St. Louis Republican, says that he and his family arrived at their new home on December 15, after a somewhat stormy passage, during which all the family were sick excephimself. Mr. Garesche is delighted with the climate and surroundings, and finds in St. Pievre a delightful contrast to St. Louis in the matter of clemlito St. Louis in the matter of cleanliness. The letter writer says: "Imagine having the streets scrubbed clean every morning and streams of pure running water constantly flowing through the gutters." The milduest of the climate, which ranges about 50 degrees throughout the year, renders stoves and artificial heat, except for cooking, unnecessary.

Mr. Garasche describes in glowing lan-suage the tropical foliage and the abundance of fruit of all kinds at all sensors of the year, which makes it seem almost a fairy land. He further states as a strange fact that the ladies on the island, notwithstanding the mildness of the climate, never appear on the streets in what is here the e-cented summer extense dark siles here cepted summer costume, dark silks being universally worn. There are excellent schools for both boys and girls conducted by various religious orders of the Catholic Church. From other sources it is learned that Mr. Garesche has created a very favorable impression among the inhabitants and anticipates a delightful four years' solourn in his tropical home.

Solon Chase of Maine has been relating some of his reminiscenses in the Augusta Journal, from which are gleaned the following: He says that a gentleman named Grant of Ellsworth, who was a member of the State Legislature at the same time with himself, once luquired of him about Eugene Hale, who was then a young man settled at Ellsworth. Says Mr. Chase: "I had known Eugene from early boyhood, dividing his time between working on the farm and going to school, and I gave him a good recommenda-tion. How could I do otherwise, for no young man ever stood fairer or better in the community where he was raised. When I met Eugene I told him what I had said to Mr. Grant. 'Now, Eugene, I want you to fill the bill,' said I. 'I will try,' was Eugene's reply. When Eugene got his foot into Congress there was no power to get him out until the granthed coverage tasked. out until the greenback craze knocked his trotters out from under him. Seth Milliken, who represents Eugene's old district, had not forgotten what kicked Eugene, and when a bill was before Congress to make more 85-cent dol-lars he voted against it. Nearly all the members of the House were strangers to me. I was intimately acquainted crs to me. I was intimately acquainted with very few; among the latter was Mr. Lucius Loring of Buckfield, a retired merchant, quite aged. He is now way up in the nincties, in good health, but does not go out much in cold weather. In warm weather he is about the village bright and cheerful every day. The Democratic candidate for Representative against Mr. Loring was John Long, now ex-Governor Long of Massachusetts. John Long moved to Massachusetts and changed his mind, and well it is for Johnny Long that he changed his mind when young. James G. Blaine was Speaker. He run that House as easy and natural as Caleb Snell runs a hauling when he is master carter moving a building. The day before the close of the session the leaders of the House were bent on having some fun. Before I knew what was up, in the absence of the Speaker, the 'gentleman from Turner' was elected Speaker pro tem, as a kind of Joe Bunker to poke fun at. I suppose they thought I was part fool, and perhaps they were not very much out of the way, either. Since then I have had the reputation among politicians of being an 'old fool,' and I have rather enjoyed the distinction.''

The School Board Virtually Stripped of Its Powers.
At the meeting of the School Board Last night a communication from the District Commissioners was read, requesting them to suspend action in the matter of transferring Miss Brown and Mrs. Myers.

A speond communication from the Commissioners was read and it caused a sensa-tion in the board, as it stripped them of all their authority in school matters. The ac-ition of the Commissioners was called forth by the persistent efforts of the board to get a deficiency appropriation of $5,000 to pay the three per cent, deficiency on the sala-rics of teachers for last year. The Com-missioners refused to recommend to Con-gress that the appropriation be made, and the board at a subsequent meeting decided that they had a right to petition Congress themselves as citizens. minioners was read and it caused a sensa-the board at a subsequent meeting decided that they had a right to petition Congress themselves as citizens.

The Commissioners in their letter, after referring to the request, of the trustees to ask Congress for the defleiency, go on to state that they have no power to make contracts in excess of appropriations. They also call the attention of the board to the set of Congress for June II, 1873, abolishing the Board of Trustees of Public Schools and their duties devolving on the Commissioners. Inder this act all law relating to the management of the public schools is sofely vested in the Commissioners, who alone have power to make appointments, but which powers have in a measure been delegated to the trustees. The trustees, continue the Commissioners, have usurped some of the powers of the Commissioners, which they have in a manner assented to by their acquiescence. The Commissioners believe that it is time that the anomalous condition of things should cease; that their authority as Commissioners should be asserted, and that the duties and powers of the trustees any of the authority which properly belongs to themselves, and they further propose for the present to annut all orders heretofore made by them delegating to the trustees any of the authority which properly belongs to themselves, and they further propose to cause such regulations to be preparel and issued from their office as in their judgment are best for the good of the public schools of the District.

Trustee Smith thought the best thing to do was to adjourn at once until they could have a conference with the Commissioners.

Mr. Curtis said that if the assignment and nomination of teachers was taken away from the board, they would hardly have any power left. After some discussion the report of the Committee on Teachers was adopted.

INVALIDS' MOTEL SURGICAL INSTITUTE

No. 663 Main Street, BUFFALO, N. V.

Not a Hospital, but a pleasant Remedial Home, organized with A FULL STAFF OF EIGHTEEN PHYSICIANS AND SURGEONS

And exclusively devoted to the treatment of all Chronic Diseases. This imposing Establishment was designed and creeted to accommodate the large number of invalids who visit Ruffalo from every State and Territory, as well as from many foreign lands, that they may avail themselves of the professional services of the Staff of skilled specialists in medicine and surgery that compose the Faculty of this widely-celebrated institution.

A FAIR AND BUSINESS-LIKE OFFER TO INVALIDS.

We carnestly invite you to come, see and examine for powrself, our institutions, appliances, advantages and success in curing chronic diseases. Have a mind of your own. Do not listen to or heed the commel of skeptical friends or jenious physicians, who know nothing of us, our system of treatment, or means of cure, yet who never lose an opportunity to misrepresent and endeavor to prejudice people against us. We are responsible to pour for what we represent, and if you come and visit us, and find that we have misrepresented, in any particular, our institutions, advantages or success, we will promptly refund to you interested and candid people what we are doing for suffering humanity.

NOT ALWAYS NECESSARY TO SEE PATIENTS.

By our original system of diagnosis, we can treat many chronic diseases just as successfully without as with a personal consultation. While we are always glad to see our patients, and become acquainted with them, show them our institutions, at of familiarize them with our system of treatment, yet we have not seen one person in five hundred whom we have cured. The perfect accuracy with which seentists are enabled to deduce the most minute particulars in their several departments, appears almost miraculous, if we view it in the light of the early ages. Take, for example, the electro-magnetic telegraph, the greatest invention of the age. Is it not a marvelous degree of accuracy which enables an operator to exactly locate a fracture in a submarine cable nearly three thousand miles long? Dur venerable "clerk of the weather "has become so thoroughly familiar with the most wayward elements of nature that he can accurately predict their movements. He can sit in Washington and forefell what the weather will be in Florida or New York as well as if several hundred miles did not intervene between him and the places named.

And so in all departments of modern science, what is required is the knowledge of certain signs. From these scientists deduce accurate conclusions regardless of distance. So, also, in mediculations are provided to originate and perfect a system of determining, with the greatest accuracy, the nature of chronic diseases without seeing and personally examining our patients. In recognizing diseases without a personal examination of the patient, we claim to possess no mirreulous powers. We obtain our knowledge of the patient's disease by the practical application, to the practice of medicine, of well-established principles of modern science. And it is to the accuracy with which this system has endowed us that we owe our almost world-wide reputation of skillfully treating lingering or chronic affections. This system of practice, and the marvelous success which has been attained through it, demonstrate the fact that diseases display certain phenomena, which, being subjected to scientific analysis, furnish abundant and unmistakable data, to guide the judgment of the skillfull practitioner aright in determining the nature of diseased conditions. The most ample resources for treating lingering or chronic diseases, and the greatest skill, are thus placed within the easy reach of every invalid, however distant he or she may reside from the physicians making the treatment of such affections a specialty. Full particulars of our original, scientific system of examining and treating patients at a distance are contained in "The People's Common Sense Medical Adviser," By R. V. Pierce, M. D. 1000 pages and over 350 colored and other illustrations. Sent, post-paid, for $1.50. Or write and describe your symptoms, inclosing ten cents in stamps, and a complete treaties, on your particular disease, will be sent you, with our terms for treatment and all particulars.

COMMON SENSE AS APPLIED TO MEDICINE.

It is a well-known fact, and one that appeals to the judgment of every thinking person, that the physician who devotes his whole time to the study and investigation of a certain class of diseases, must become better qualified to treat such diseases than he who attempts to treat every ill to which flesh is helr, without giving special attention to any class of diseases. Men, in all ages of the world, who have become famous, have devoted their lives to some special branch of science, art, or By thorough organization, and subdividing the practice of medicine and surgery in this institution, every invalid is treated by a specialist—one who devotes his undivided attention to the particular viaes of discusses to which the case belongs. The advantage of this arrangement must be obvious. Medical science offers a vast field for investigation, and no physician can, within the brief limits of a life-time, achieve the highest degree of success in the treatment of every malady incident to humanity the afflicted of our land, without the most perfect, complete and extensive provision for the most improved treatment of diseases of the air-passages and lungs, such as this, Bronchitis, Asthma, and Consumption, we have made this branch of our installation one of the leading Departments. We have crey kind of useful instrument for examining the organs involved, such as rhinoscopes, laryngoscopes, stethoscopes, spirometers, etc., etc., as well as all of the most approved kinds of apparatus for the application of sprays, fundations, atomizations, pulverizations, inhalations, and all other forms of approved medicinal applications.

OUR FIELD OF SUCCESS.

We publish three separate books on Nasal, Throat and Lung diseases, viz. A Treatise on Consumption, Laryngitis and Bronchitis; prices, postpaid, ten cents; A treatise on Asthma, or Phthisis, giving new and successful treatment; price, postpaid, two cents.

Dyspepsia, "Liver Complaint," Obstinate Constitute Constitution. Chronic Biarrica. Tape-worms, and kindred affections are among those chronic diseases in the successful treatment of which our specialists have attained unparalleled success. Many of the diseases affecting the liver and other organs constitutions to the process of digestion, are very obscure, and are not infrequently mistaken by both laymen and physicians for other maledies, and treatment is employed directed to the removal of a disease which does not exist. Our Complete Treatise on diseases of the Digestive Organs will be sent to any address on receipt of ten cents in postage stamps.

BRIGHTYS DISEASE, DIABETTES, and REGISTS DISEASE, DIABETES, and kindred mailadies, have been very largely treated, and cures offected in thousands of cases which had been pronounced beyond hope. The study and practice of che-mical analysis and microscopical examination of the urine in our consideration of cases, with reference to correct diagnosis, in which our institution long upo became famous, has maturally led to a very extensive practice in diseases of the urinary organs. Our specialists have acquired, through a vast and varied experience, great expertness in determining the cract nature of cach case, and, hence, have been successful in nicely adapting their remedies for the cure of each incividual case.

The treatment of diseases of the urinary organs having constituted a prominent branch, or specialty, of our practice at the Invalids Hotel and Surgical Institute, and, being in constant recipit of numerous inquiries for a complete but concise work on the nature and curability of these maindiles, we have published a large illustrated treatise on these diseases, which will be sent to any address on receipt of ten cents in postage stamps.
